The old man has gone so consistently out of way to do the correct thing to foreigners that a good deal of sympathy is felt for him. His age and experience, too, seemed to deserve respect from youth, and he had done his utmost in the punctilious observance of the claims of hospitality and courtesy. Mr. Pavilov and his people generally mask their mail by velvet; they add Suaviter in mode to jortiter in re; the Baron makes no bones of matters, he goes straight at the big wigs of the Yamen and frightens them into compliance. As an Anglicized native observed to me the other day, "when he shouts heads' tha Tsungli Yamen proceeds to stand on its pate normal position."

There is a very strong belief in official circles that the Germans have already discovered the emptiness of the Kiauchao nut and are looking about for another and a better; that the delay The CHAIRMAN proposed that the new rule of the Prince's visit has been primarily due to the fact that they could not quite see where to make their next demand, and that his presence in Peking would show the forthcoming move in the game. withstanding Mat Salleh's professed loy alty to the B. N. B. Government, it is reported that he has threatened to repudiate his recent agreement unless he is permitted to govern th districts of Sugat and Labuck. One of the conditions of his pardon was that he was not to reside anywhere near the two places mentioned. It is, said that he has now collected a large number of followers in the vicinity of the Inanam River. Mr. Cowie, Managing Director of the B. N B. Co., who was sent out by the Board with a great flourish of trumpets to put matters straight has suddenly returned to Europe. What has caused him to take this step at this inopportune time has not transpired. His relations with the officials has not been of the most cordial nature. Two officers of position and experience have had to resigne the service owing, it is said, to their having expressed in very strong terms their opinion touching the peace-at-anyprice policy which Mr. Cowie desires to pursue in regard to Mat Salleh, a renegade who has defied the Government, raided towns, and caused a great less of life, and who even went so far as to issue all sorts of threats against the

A day of excitement, such as to-day, has not been seen in Washington since the Civil War. Official Washington was in a forment, and few of the employees in any of the departments could maintain their composure sufficiently to go on with their routine work. They were in an explosive state. The excitement was contagious and senators and representatives mixed in the crowds gathered around the Navy headquarters. Senator Hanna aroused the crowd at one-time by leading with a " hip, hip, hurrah, for Admiral Dewey, and later a roar of stentorian cheers from Mr. Theodore Rossovelt's room gathered everybody in the vast building to the east wing in time to witness the departure of the eastern contingent of the mounted riflemen. Mr. Roosevelt had said good-bye to the volunteers before they started at 2.40 this afternoon for San Antonio, and the cheer was the means by which they took their leave. Mr. Robsevelt himself will follow on Monday or Tuesday.

A close study of Admiral Dewcy's two cablegrams during the day only increased the wonder felt early in the day by the naval prises, value 50 per cent of the entries, with experts at the extraordinary results achieved by the Admiral, almost without injury.

Washington, 3rd May. A leading diplomatic official said it was un fortunate at this juncture that the assertion was made by leading men here that the Philippines would be taken and held at least until the war ended when they might be sold to Great Britain or Japan | He pointed out that while the course might be a wise one in due times yet its as nonnecement now only served to awaken the Deropean Powers at a moment when it was needless and impolitic to excite resentment in other quarters. There was no principle of International law, he said, which kept a victorims nation fresponjeying the fruits of warfare by holding territory gained in battle. Intervention by the Powers of Europe, he pointed out, was a new procedure, quite apart from International aw, and based upon only the strongth the present

The suggestion that Great Britain would take the Philippines in exchange for the Bermudas and other British possessions near this country is not regarded as feasible. There has been no suggestion yet of intervention from any foreight source, although it is felt that the occupation of the Philippines is more likely to develop a move in this direction than any other step thus far taken. A diplomatic official of long experience in Asiatic countries pointed out that there were circumstances connected with the Philippines which would make the holding by the United States more a burden than a benefit.

The Westminster Gazatte discussing the Philippine question, quotes the assumption of the American newspapers that "the United States can do precisely what she desires with Manile or the Philippine Islands-return them, keep, sell them or barter them," implying that America has only to speak, and no our will venture to dispute her right to dispose of her lawful prize as she choses. The minster tragette says it much fears that "this view will entail disagreeable surprises," adding: In entering European politics, the United States will probably discover that these simple ideas of doing what you will with your own there become obsolete in Europe. The first ing. symptoms are likely to be marked by an increast anti-American pressure, which, if Great Britain could be counted on to join it, would specifily lead to intervention on behalf of
